

Dear parents/carers / colleagues,

We hope all families have had a lovely Easter break and that children are refreshed and ready for the final term of the year.

Following our message just before Easter about the initial consultation on the plan to amalgamate (merge) Yeadon Westfield Junior and Infant schools, we wanted to let you know that Statutory Notices are being published today. This is part of a legal process and marks the start of a 4 week 'representation' period during which time anyone can comment on the proposal. You can read the statutory notices and find details about how to comment by 17 May by clicking the link here Planning school places - have your say | Leeds.gov.uk. Whilst consultation on the proposal was carried out by the Governing Bodies, the final decision about the amalgamation rests with Leeds City Council's Executive Board. It is expected that Executive Board will consider this at its meeting in June - we'll be in touch with another update following that meeting.

As always please let us know if you have any questions.

Yours sincerely,

Dawn Lowry
